What is a Binding death benefit nomination?

It is a legal instrument that "binds" the Trustee of Sunsuper to pay your death benefit to your nominated beneficiaries. A binding death benefit nomination allows you to have greater certainty about where your death benefit will be paid. Provided the nomination is valid and less than three years old, then the Trustee has no discretion in relation to whom the benefit is to be paid.

In the event of your death, if your nomination is found to be invalid, the Sunsuper Trustee will use its discretion to determine how your benefit will be paid. An invalid nomination may still be an important consideration for the Trustee when determining the payment of your death benefit, however this does not ensure the benefit will be paid in the same way as a valid binding death benefit nomination.

Who can I nominate as a beneficiary?

You can nominate dependant(s) and/or your legal personal representative (that is the executor or administrator of your estate). If you nominate your Legal Personal Representative it is important that you have a valid Will and keep it up-to-date, as the Trustee must pay your death benefit to your estate.

Under superannuation law, "dependants" include the following:

- your spouse (includes married and defacto couples),
- your child (includes an adopted child, step child, ex-nuptial child or child of your spouse),
- any person in an 'interdependent relationship' with you, or
- any other person who the Trustee considers was dependent on you for maintenance or support, at the date of your death.

Someone can be in an interdependent relationship with you if: you have a close personal relationship, you live together, one or each of you provides the other with financial support, and one or each of you provides the other with domestic support and personal care. Interdependency can also arise where two people have a close personal relationship but don't live together or provide each other with financial support or personal care because of physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability. In most cases, your parents are not considered to be your dependants. If you want your death benefit to go to your parents, you should seek legal advice about arranging for your Will to cater for this.

If your nominated beneficiary doesn't fit into any of the above categories, your nomination may be invalid. Contact us to discuss further.

How do I ensure my Binding death benefit nomination is valid?

When you initially fill in your form you must do the following:

- complete all sections of the form
- ensure the beneficiaries are dependants or your Legal Personal Representative
- ensure the benefit allocation between your beneficiaries adds up to 100.00%, and
- ensure you sign and date the form in front of two witnesses, who must be over 18 years of age and not nominated as beneficiaries.

Your nomination may become invalid if:

- your form was signed more than three years before you die. You must complete a new form or amend or confirm your existing form at least every three years
- one of your beneficiaries dies before you do
- one of your nominated dependants is not a dependant at the time of your death, or
- you're no longer a member of Sunsuper at the time of your death.

What will Sunsuper do?

It's important that, like a Will, you keep your binding nomination up-to-date.

We'll confirm any new, amended or cancelled nomination. We'll confirm your current binding death benefit nomination details each year with your Annual statement. We'll also contact you prior to the expiry of any existing nomination to help ensure you're given the opportunity to complete a new form.
