

Sunsuper continues adviser growth

Sunsuper has today announced the appointment of Mr Mark Stubbings to the Fund's newly created role of Business Development Manager, supporting the Fund's retail distribution strategy.

Mr Stubbings' has more than 20 years' experience in the financial services industry at senior management level, most recently as Senior National Manager, Practice Management at Millennium3 Financial Services.

He has also held roles with Professional Investment Services, CommInsure, ANZ Banking Group and the Tower Group in New Zealand, and has an MBA from Massey University, New Zealand.

Mr Stubbings also has a long affiliation with the Association of Financial Advisers (AFA) having been the Chair of the AFA's QLD Advisory Council from 2007 to 2015. He currently sits on the AFA's National Conference Committee and QLD Advisory Council GenXt Sub-Committee.

Sunsuper's Retail Distribution and Advice National Manager, Anne Fuchs said that Mr Stubbings' appointment was an exciting and important development for Sunsuper.

"Mark's appointment reinforces the message to financial advisers that Sunsuper is a serious player in retail distribution, as our people capabilities give us a competitive edge to showcase our highly rated products to them.

"Mark has extensive and trusted relationships within the financial adviser marketplace across Australia."

"Mark will be responsible for growing Sunsuper's membership and funds under management via external financial advisers and ensuring that Sunsuper is at the top of advisers' recommended list when they're advising their clients on superannuation and retirement products.

Mr Stubbings will be based in Sunsuper's Brisbane office but will oversee business development opportunities nationally.

Sunsuper is one of Australia's largest super and retirement businesses with one million members and $33 billion in funds under management.
