

Sunsuper grows Product team

Sunsuper has announced the appointment of three new product senior managers as the Fund continues to grow its strategic product management capabilities, following the creation of a new product division late last year.

The newly created management roles will build on the team's existing skills and experience and ensure that Sunsuper is well placed to design, develop and release new products in response to members' needs.

Ben Hillier will manage the Fund's superannuation and retirement products team with more than 15 years of product management experience, predominantly in financial services. His most recent role was with ANZ managing their SMSF products, and he also has six years banking experience at Suncorp managing credit cards and retail deposit products.

Patrick White will lead the advice and retirement solutions products team, after leading the Fund's financial advice team for the past three years. Patrick has more than 14 years' experience across a range of leadership, management and senior adviser positions within the financial services industry. Patrick is also Deputy Chair of the Faculty Advisory Board for ANZiIF and has recently been appointed to ASFA's Standing Advisory Panels for Retirement and Advice.

Keristi Price joins Sunsuper to manage the insurance products team after more than 10 years in product management roles at OnePath, including most recently as strategic product manager for the group's retail insurance business.

Sunsuper's product general manager Andrew Nicholson said the new product managers were well-placed to design, develop and manage Sunsuper's insurance, superannuation, retirement and advice product strategies.

"Ben, Patrick and Keristi have the skills and experience required to manage the design and development of our future product suite to continue driving growth for the Fund," said Mr Nicholson.

"The appointment of these three new product managers will ensure that Sunsuper continues to create and implement products that meet the needs of our members both now and throughout their retirement."
