SUNSUPER WELCOMES GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Tony Lally, chief executive officer of one of Australia's biggest super funds, Sunsuper, has welcomed the Federal Government's announcement earlier today of changes to the superannuation system.

Mr Lally said the announcement provides welcome clarity to speculation around pending changes to super and should work to stem growing fears within the community.

He said the move would restore workers' confidence in their ability to plan for their retirement through their super savings.

"It is vitally important to maintain clarity and stability around superannuation so as not to erode Australians' faith in the system," Mr Lally said.

"We believe today's announcement has cleared the air and provided a clear way forward for all parties to work with the industry on a sustainable and equitable superannuation system that will maximise the retirement benefits for all Australians now and well into the future."
